

A Training Program for Non-Clinical Staff: Trauma Informed Strategies for Working with Individuals with ID/DD/ASD

Non-clinical staff will learn trauma and resilience informed strategies for individuals with intellectual disabilities (ID), developmental disabilities (DD), and autism spectrum disorders (ASD). After a review of foundational information on ID, DD, and ASD, participants will learn and practice core strategies for working with children, youth, and their families.

After completing the 1.5-hour two part virtual training series, participants will be invited to a learning community to continue to practice skills and participate in consultation.
